

CONTENTS

- 10 Editorial
- 36 From 'Cries and Whispers' to 'Brown Pots': A long journey to the Shepparton Art Museum
Peter Hill, Shepparton
- 40 No one person can own the landscape: Rebirth at Bundanon
Sophia Halloway, Illaroo
- 44 Navigating an architecture (and poetics) of place
Michael Fitzgerald, Rockhampton
- 48 Reiterating our fears and fantasies: 'The Data Imaginary'
Louise R. Mayhew, Brisbane
- 52 Exalting a poetics for the future: 'This language that is every stone'
Ellie Buttrose, Brisbane
- 56 Nolan's career pathway
Christopher Heathcote
- 60 Beautiful failure: 'Queer' at the NGV
Michael Fitzgerald, Melbourne
- 64 The future of the art market or a blip on the blockchain?
Zeta Xu
- 74 Fa'afabulous
Léuli Eshraghi
- 80 Internalising our anxiety: Ken + Julia Yonetani's 'To Be Human'
Emily Wakeling
- 86 'The only thing you can hold to is memory': The politics of remembrance and erasure in works by Rushdi Anwar
Blake Palmer
- 92 A very serious intent: David Elliott's Art and Trousers
John Clark
- 96 The struggle to suppress the self: Susan Best's It's Not Personal
Elsbeth Pitt
- 98 Hossein Valamanesh 1949 – 2022
Michael Fitzgerald
- 102 Ken Whisson 1927 – 2022
Lesley Harding

Cover:
Yuki Kihara, Nafea e te fa'aipoipo? When will you marry? (After Gauguin), 2020,
Hahnemühle fine art paper mounted on aluminium,
101 x 77cm; courtesy Yuki Kihara and Milford Galleries,
Aotearoa New Zealand

