The Murder Room is an online community with crime at its heart, where you can find the best that classic crime writing has to offer, from the Golden Age of detective fiction to contemporary classics, including greats such as John Dickson Carr, James Hadley Chase and many more.

But The Murder Room goes beyond books, creating a unique community for readers and writers alike. The Murder Room blog features exclusive posts written by the genre's top classic and contemporary authors, experts and the passionate Murder Room team. Meanwhile the forum is where crime fans can meet current authors and discuss their favourite books, TV and film. The Murder Room is the destination for crime fiction.
