

DIGITAL BANIPAL

– the more than ever open window on contemporary Arab literature

Now Banipal is even more open, with the digital edition offering readers all over the world the chance to flip open the magazine on their computers, iPads, iPhones or androids, wherever they are, search through the issues and sync them.

All for £18 a year (3 issues). A digital subscription comes with full access to back issues going back to Banipal 31, Spring 2008, with more being added. In 2015, all back issues will have been digitised, and a combined print+digital subscription will be available – for both individuals and institutions. Until then the print and online subscriptions are separate.

Free iTunes App. Preview the current issue or check out the Free Trial issue – Banipal 40 – Libyan Fiction
