Who would have predicted arguably the UK's most over-the-top band of all-time would have produced a dignified Blues-rock collection in 2008? But it in the meeting of Paul Rodgers with Phil May and Roger Taylor, the former FREE frontman's musical philosophy clearly won through. "I think I've given them an injection of the Blues, really, because I've done a Blues infusion... Queen are capable of not just the flamboyant kind of mega music - they are also capable of beautiful music. It's great to hear them let loose on a jam."
