

On the Edge

The story of Alderley from prehistory to the present

Twenty-one years after the Alderley Edge Landscape Project was conceived, its results have been published in a book that embraces every aspect of the Edge, from rocks and minerals to legends of sleeping knights guarding hoards of gold, and the trophy homes of Mancunian cotton kings. Chris Catling picks out some of the more salient and amusing discoveries.

PHOTO: Ed Coghlan