

Stephen Baxter Xeelee: An Omnibus

Timelike Infinity, Raft, Flux, Ring

Ambitious SF of the highest calibre, collected in one volume

The books that launched Stephen Baxter's career, the creation of one of the most astonishingly ambitious universes in SF's history, are brought together here in one astounding volume. This is classic space opera set in the most extravagantly imagined universe, a story that begins with the Big Bang and concludes with the end of time.

Born in 1957, Stephen Baxter lives in Morpeth, Northumberland with his wife. He has degrees from Cambridge and Southampton.

www.stephen-baxter.com

Science Fiction Cased/Trade Paperback March
£20.00/£14.99 900pp 234 x 153mm
978 0 575 09040 8/978 0 575 09041 5
Markets: World XUSAC
USA, Translation & Serial: Ralph Vicinanza

Beth Vaughan Slave Chains

The superb third book in the Palins sequence

Bethral is a mercenary. Ezren is a storyteller with the power of wild magic. To survive, Ezren will have to learn to control his power or rid himself of it. But the unlikely couple have been wrenched from their home and now their new hosts wish to take Ezren's magic – even if it means having to kill him to do so.

An expert in rich storytelling and world-building, Beth Vaughan has created another strong female protagonist to stand alongside her predecessors.

Beth Vaughan is a bankruptcy and financial lawyer in real life, and a keen fantasy role-player. She lives in Toledo, Ohio. www.warprize.com

Fantasy Cased/Trade Paperback March
£18.99/£12.99 388pp 234 x 153mm
978 0 575 08452 0/978 0 575 08453 7
Markets: World XUSAC
USA: MBA Literary Agency; Translation & Serial: Orion