

p.25

p.18

Cover Dragon tile (one of 20), Ming dynasty, 15th–16th century, Shanxi province, ceramic, 39 × 244cm (total). British Museum, London
Photo: Ben Blossom; © Trustees of the British Museum
See feature on pp.76–81

- 17 Editor's Letter
Ivory matters
- 18 Agenda
November highlights
- 25 Diary
Bárbara Rodríguez Muñoz on the art of Indian medicine
- 29 Letter
Sophie Richard in Tokyo
- 32 Architecture
Gavin Stamp on the career of J.L. Pearson
- 35 Q&A
Susan Philipsz on staging her new sound work at BALTIC
- 40 Inquiry
Christopher de Bellaigue on the revival of Ottomanism in Turkey
- 46 Asian Art in London Preview
Matthew Wilcox selects his highlights of the event

Features

- 52 A Family Affair
Gabriel and Ann Barbier-Mueller show Susan Moore their vast collection of Samurai armour
- 60 New Perspectives
Lidija Haas talks to R.H. Quaytman about abstract painting, photography, and female agency
- 68 The Business of Luxury
Edwin Heathcote considers the impact of the Wiener Werkstätte on modern design
- 76 The China Collectors
Stacey Pierson on the historical collectors who contributed to the British Museum's holdings of Chinese art