Inside
The Wire 414 | August 2018

Over 22 pages our writers examine the turning points in music where stripping it down and cutting it back forged new worlds of sound, from composition to funk to punk, including:

30 Black minimalism
Taking in fine art, funk, religion, rap, tape loops and more, the story of black minimalism defies an official narrative tainted by prejudice and lies. By David Toop

40 Kurt Munkacsi
The recording engineer and collaborator – with Philip Glass, Richard Landry and David Rosenboom, among others – is one of minimalism’s unsung facilitators. By Tommy McCutcheon

Bites

12 Neil Luck
Drama and ritual fuel the musical theatre of the London based composer. By Abi Bliss

14 Mary Stark
The film maker weaves her own path through folk history. By Katrina Dixon

16 Yximalloo
The self-described Japanese outsider scavenges for folk fragments. By Nick Currie

18 Louise Landes Levi
Drone and poetry versus environmental apocalypse. By Francis Gooding

20 Global Ear
Berlin
The electrified sax is charging up Turkish musicians in Germany’s hipster hotbed capital. By Robert Rigney

22 Invisible Jukebox
Edan
Will the polymath rapper and producer remain humble (and magnificent) faced with The Wire’s mystery record selection? Tested by Dave Tompkins

76 The Inner Sleeve
Michael A Gonzales on Marvin Gaye’s ‘I Want You

87 On Site
Exhibitions: Rie Nakajima, Joan Jonas

49 Reviews Index

50 Soundcheck
New vinyl, CDs, downloads and streams, plus reissues and specialist columns, including:

51 Black Spirituals
Final prayer. By Emily Pothast

55 DJ Sprinkles & Hardrock Striker
In at the deep end. By Louise Gray

61 Khalab
Countdown to armageddon. By Neil Kulkarni

73 Lena Platonos
Modern Greek. By Emily Blick

77 On Screen
New films and DVDs: Stephen Schible’s Ryuichi Sakamoto: Coda

79 Print Run
New music books: Moby Grape, library music, Samuel Beckett, and more

83 On Location
Recent festivals, gigs and clubs: Vision Festival, Godflesh, Anthony Braxton, Matana Roberts & Kelly Jayne Jones, and more

 Gerrard Murrell (Munkacsi)