

A close-up photograph of a sliced apple. The apple is cut in half, revealing the yellowish-white flesh and the dark brown core. The surface of the apple, both inside and out, is covered in numerous small, clear water droplets. A single green leaf is attached to the stem at the top right. The background is plain white.

health and social care

2019 | new and recent titles

polity politybooks.com