

Contents

Free thinking since 1913

Sinking ship: George Walden on England's fools 24

What is wrong with us? Rory Stewart has big questions 20

Up Front

- 3 Leader
- 10 Correspondence

Columns

- 7 Peter Wilby on the lessons of the leaked Kim Darroch memos
- 9 Stephen Bush on the Tory leadership race
- 19 Dylan Jones writes this week's Diary
- 23 Helen Thompson on the troublesome trio of Germany, Nato and the EU
- 29 Yanis Varoufakis recalls the capitulation that has allowed the right to triumph in Greece
- 40 Amelia Tait uncovers the remarkable tale of India's postwar Polish refugees

Observations

- 12 In the Picture
- 13 Comment: Mark Damazer considers our politicians' banal promises to "unite the country"
- 14 Commons Confidential: Kevin Maguire
The pick of the gossip from Westminster
- 16 Encounter: Anoosh Chakelian meets Betty Boothroyd, beginning a new chapter in her political life
- 17 Ideas: Grace Blakeley explains Deutsche Bank's last-ditch attempt to save itself
- 18 Sport: Michael Henderson on the pleasures of festival cricket

Articles

- 20 Rory Stewart on how Britain can overcome its midlife crisis
- 24 George Walden on "Brexit's bullshit Britain" and the closing of the conservative mind
- 30 Tim Pears recalls summers spent foraging for berries
- 32 James Bridle on Bitcoin, Facebook and the digital currency revolution

The Critics: Books

- 42 Leo Robson considers the life and legacy of the novelist and philosopher Iris Murdoch on the centenary of her birth
- 47 The NS Poem "The Landing" by Isobel Dixon
- 48 David Priestland looks at the various ways Mao's thinking was interpreted, as shown in Julia Lovell's Maoism: A Global History
- 50 Mark Cocker on Julian Hoffman's Irreplaceable, a survey of how global warming affects individuals
- 51 Anoosh Chakelian finds that Dina Nayeri's The Ungrateful Refugee humanises the displacement crisis
- 52 Philip Hoare compares books about the Bauhaus and its visionary leading lights a century on

The paper in this magazine originates from timber that is sourced from sustainable forests, responsibly managed to strict environmental, social and economic standards. The manufacturing mills have both FSC and PEFC certification and also ISO9001 and ISO14001 accreditation.