

The Future Meeting of the Paths

If the principles that define new AI prove to be insightful, then AI will need to situate agents in far richer environments that reflect the phenomena dealt with by humans and animals. AI investigates cognition in agents. At the same time, it has largely failed to appreciate that evolution has already solved that problem.

Traditionally, AI has failed to recognize the importance of the interactions between agent and environment.