

A black and white photograph of a person running on a bridge. The runner is in silhouette, moving from left to right. They are wearing a long-sleeved top and leggings. The bridge has a metal railing with a grid pattern. In the background, a city skyline is visible through a hazy atmosphere, with several tall buildings and power lines. The overall mood is serene and active.

sociology 2021

new and recent titles | polity