

CONTENTS ISSUE 377

(Vol. XXXII, No. 5) | August 2021

FEATURES

20 NORTHAMPTON'S CHEQUERED HISTORY Uncovering Britain's first medieval chess workshop

The remains of a 12th-century carver's workshop where chess pieces were being manufactured have been revealed during excavations in Northampton town centre. It is the first such workshop to be found in Britain.

28 INTERPRETING DOVER CASTLE'S GREAT TOWER Angevin innovation, or a medieval white elephant?

At first glance, Dover Castle appears to be the epitome of medieval fortification, but a recent in-depth look at its construction has yielded a much more nuanced and complex picture of the site's design.

38 REIMAGINING THE PAST Experiments in construction at Butser Ancient Farm

An archaeologist at Butser Ancient Farm takes us behind the scenes, providing an in-depth look at the experimental archaeological techniques that the team uses to create the site's reconstructed buildings.

46 SAILING AHEAD The latest news from the Sutton Hoo Ship's Company

We bring you an update from the ambitious project working to accurately reconstruct the famous Anglo-Saxon ship excavated at Sutton Hoo in 1939.

50 A GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY Marking 50 years of the Kent Archaeological Rescue Unit

Over the past half-century, the Kent Archaeological Rescue Unit has helped record numerous archaeological sites threatened by development. We highlight some of their biggest trials and triumphs to-date.

