The problem of pathocracy

Do psychologists have a responsibility to help prevent ruthless, amoral people attaining positions of power? Steve Taylor considers the arguments...

Also: Work in the real world... we preview the European Association of Work and Organizational Psychology Congress, due to be held in Glasgow in January